Important Update Regarding SolarU

Dear Valued Customer,

We are writing to share an important update regarding SolarU.

As our business evolves, we have made the decision to retire the SolarU brand and transition a subset of our renewable energy offering under the Source Atlantic name. Going forward, Source Atlantic will focus on supporting commercial and industrial customers with energy and renewable energy solutions as part of our broader product and service offering.

As part of this transition, Source Atlantic will no longer pursue residential solar installation projects. Existing commitments will continue to be supported as required, and our team remains available to assist customers throughout the transition.

By integrating these capabilities into Source Atlantic, we can better align our expertise, resources, and customer support with the needs of commercial and industrial organizations seeking energy-related solutions.

We sincerely thank our customers, partners, and stakeholders for their support of SolarU over the years and look forward to continuing to serve the energy needs of commercial and industrial businesses under the Source Atlantic brand.

If you have any questions, please contact your Source Atlantic representative.

Sincerely,

The Source Atlantic Team
